DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. This office action is in response to the amendment filed on 3/10/2008. Claims 2-5, 9-12 and 16-19 were canceled. Claims 1, 6-8, 13-15 and 20-25 are present in the instant application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.
3. Claims 1, 6-8, 13-15 and 20-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Araujo et al (US 6108350), hereinafter referred to as Araujo, in view of Milbrandt (US 6631120) and further in view of Oshins et al (US 6108350), hereinafter referred to as Oshins.

Re claims 1, 8, 15, 22 and 25, Araujo discloses a central office (a second node, figure 1a, element 130) negotiating with customer premises equipment including an ADSL modem (a first node, figure 1, element 110) to use a cell-based protocol

(determining one or more communication protocols via which a second node is capable of communicating with the first node based upon one or more parameters received from the second node during an initialization of communication between the first node and the second node, column 5, lines 30-40). Araujo discloses implementing cell-based protocol (ATM protocol) stack after negotiating between the customer premises equipment and the central office such that the cell-based protocol is used on the link (selecting second drivers to implement a second communication protocol if the one or more parameters specify the second communication protocol, column 5, lines 50-53). Araujo fails to disclose selecting first drivers to implement an Ethernet protocol if the one or more parameters specify the first communication protocol. Milbrandt discloses a communication device supporting an Ethernet protocol (column 5, line 3). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of Araujo by adding to it Ethernet protocol stack as suggested by Milbrandt for the benefit of conforming to widely used data link layer protocol, Ethernet. Araujo and Milbrandt fail to disclose invoking a plug and play (PnP) protocol manager to initiate loading of the one or more drivers into memory. Oshins discloses a PnP manager to load a device driver into memory (column 6, lines 50-52). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of Araujo with the teaching of Oshins for the benefit of loading of appropriate drivers by the PnP manager determining which drivers are required to support a particular functional unit and the loading of those drivers.

Re claims 6, 13 and 20, Araujo discloses customer premises equipment with an ADSL modem driver to be utilized for selection protocol stack (the first node comprises at least one modem driver and the determining is performed, at least in part, by the at least one modem driver, figure 1a, element 118).

Re claims 7, 14 and 21, Araujo discloses a central office negotiating with customer premises equipment to use a cell-based protocol (initialization of the communication comprises a negotiation between the first node and the second node; and in response at least in part to a request from the first node, the second node transmits during the negotiation the at least one parameter to the first node, column 5, lines 30-40).

Re claims 22- 24, Araujo implicitly discloses a PC with a circuit board comprising a bus and a host processor coupled to the bus; and when the circuit card with a DSL modem is coupled to the slot, the circuitry is coupled to the bus.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
